MILES TO CARRY APPEAL TO 9TH

Judge Campbell Refuses To Grant Application

SAME CHARGES MADE

Appeal Based on Validity Of Recent Ordinances

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 25.—An application to restrain the city of Port Arthur from interfering with E. H. Miles in carrying out his duties as city clerk there was denied this morning by Judge J. D. Campbell in 60th district court.

The petition, presented by R. L. Murray, attorney for Miles, was drawn up following a hearing in Port Arthur last Thursday when the commission voted for the second time to discharge Miles.

To Go to Ninth Court

After Judge Campbell had denied the application for injunction, Murray filed notice of appeal and the case will be carried to the ninth court of civil appeals. Since this court is in vacation, there is no indication that any order will be taken on the injunction for some time yet.

Murray stated this morning that the petition presented this morning contained substantially the same charges made when the case first came up for an order in the 60th district court.

Attacks Ordinance

Judge J. D. Campbell granted a temporary injunction restraining the city officials from interfering with Miles in the discharge of his duties.

Murray is basing his appeal to the ninth court of appeals on the validity of city ordinances passed just prior to Miles' dismissal.

PORT ARTHUR IS GIVEN PRAISE

Texas Commercial Organ Comments on Potentialities

Praising Port Arthur's potentialities as revealed in the recent 32-page booklet put out by the publicity department of the Chamber of Commerce and Shipping and distributed all over the world, the Texas Commercial News, leading commercial publication of Texas, devotes an editorial in the August issue.

Part of the editorial comment follows:

"Two publications, one entitled 'Port Arthur, the Industrial Port of America' by the publicity department of the Port Arthur chamber of commerce which tells by picture and printed word the story of the building of this wonderful port on Sabine bay, have been received by us. It contains a map showing the location of the town and is profusely illustrated with beautiful scenes in and about the city of Port Arthur. Of special interest are the shipping scenes which show big ocean going vessels from every port in the world which come right up-town and berth at the modern docks provided at this excellent port where they take on cargoes of oil, lumber, rice and cotton all of which are Texas products and sail away over the damp trails of the sea to the far distant places carrying the name and fame of Texas and of the great southwest."

SHIVERS FAVORS WHIP POST TO HALT CRIME

Judge Shivers does not favor witch burning and other outdoor sports of the Pilgrim fathers but in police court today he committed himself as partially an advocate of one method of law enforcement popular in those days—

The whipping post.

His honor, on seeing two old offenders, negros, back before him for the "umpteenth" time for fighting was exasperated.

"I've fined you negros untill it doesn't seem to do any good. Think I'll have Chief Covington to put up a whipping post," Judge Shivers said.

"That would suit us judge, if we wouldn't have to pay a fine, too," one of the defendants replied.

S. P. GRANTS RATES TO S. OF C. V. REUNION

Excursion rates and a special train for Port Arthur, Orange and Beaumont members and guests of the Sons of Confederate Veterans for the state convention to be held the first of the month at Fort Worth have been granted by the Southern Pacific, a letter received today by Elgin Blalock, state adjutant advises.

The communication is from W. E. McCormick, general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, Houston That some 50 delegates from the three cities will attend the Fort Worth convention, Blalock believes.

BOSSLER DENIES TROLLEY CHARGE

Refuses Council Request for Franchise Revise

LETTER RECEIVED

Hitch Indicated in Street Car Line Extension

All requests made by the city commission for changes in the traction franchise as submitted by the Port Arthur Traction company through the Chamber of Commerce and Shipping's traction committee have been flatly refused by President Bossler of Ohio, according to report here today.

Letter Not Yet Before Committee

A telegram has been sent to Bossler urging him to reconsider, but no answer has been received, it is understood.

Members of the chamber committee said they had not seen Bossler's letter, which was sent to Manager Howard Smith of the traction company.

Smith was out of town yesterday. Dependent upon the franchise are proposed car line extensions.

Seek Guarantees

One of the chief points of difference between the city and the traction company is the demand made by the city for some guarantee as to future extensions of car lines.

In the conference between the committee and the commission, the commissioners expressed themselves as unwilling to grant a new franchise without a positive guarantee as to extensions commensurate with growth of the city.

ACHING TOOTH NOT ALIBI FOR SPEEDER

An aching tooth which continued to get worse might have been construed by the defendant as a good alibi for running 39 miles an hour in a Ford and violating the city traffic laws but Judge Shivers in city court today had plenty of sympathy but no mercy.

Defendant claimed when Motorcop Davis picked him up late Saturday as he was coming from the Texas Company after work, he was coming into the city at full speed, headed for a dentist's office.

"Have had toothache myself. 'S bad business. Know how it hurt you but the law's the law. Dollar and costs," was the comment of the court regarding the malicious molar and its unfortunate owner.

MERCHANTS TO BLAME FOR WATERED MILK

Pleading guilty to a charge of watering milk, filed by the city health department A. S. Rodrique, dairyman, was assessed a fine of $50 and costs in city court Monday morning by Judge A. H. Shivers, this being the second offense filed against the defendant, court records show.

Dr. O. I. Baker of the city health department, who filed the charge, said hereafter merchants who sold milk which proved to be watered would be held responsible the same as the dairyman, "A merchant should find out if the person he is purchasing milk from, has a good record with the health authorities before making sales," Dr. Baker said.

MATISE ASKS CONTINUANCE

Witness Absent in Flanagan Murder Case

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 24.—Motion for continuance in the Michael Matise murder case was filed this morning in 60th district court by C. W. Howth, attorney for the defense. Judge J. D. Campbell has the application under advisement and instructed special veniremen summoned on the case not to return until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Due to the absence of important witnesses, there is every possibility that the case will be continued. Michael Matise is charged with the killing of Webster Flanagan in Port Arthur on September 9. He was released on $10,000 bond on September 27, following the return of a grand jury indictment.

A girl with whom Flanagan is said to have been sitting with in an automobile the night the shooting occurred, was in the court room today with Matise's sister.

M'COY IN COURT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Kid McCoy, former prize fighter and accused slayer of Mrs. Teresa Mora, will go into court here today and plead to eight grand jury indictments, charging murder, assault with intent to commit murder, and robbery.

The plea, according to the "Kid's" defense, will be "not guilty" with a claim of insanity advanced in an effort to save him from the gallows.

An early date for the trial is in prospect.

S. P. TO WITHDRAW RESTRICTIONS ON RATES

Effective September 2 the Southern Pacific railway formally will withdraw all rate restrictions made against Port Arthur and all points south of Beaumont in collaboration with the Mississippi Warrior barge line, H. Y. Taylor, traffic head of the Chamber of Commerce and Shipping was advised today.

This announcement completely ends what would have been a long drawn out suit before the Interstate Commerce commission had not the rail company answered Taylor's demand that Port Arthur's rates should be in proportion to other cities along the Gulf coast.

'Ma Will Be Boss, Not Dad,' Ferguson Daughter Declares

Mrs. Nallee Tells New York Skeptics Governor Nominee has Mind of Her Own In State Affairs

By MAX BUCKINGHAM

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Texas capital will be ruled over by an efficient housekeeper—one who will use kitchen sweeping tactics in clearing out the mess of politics—when "Ma" Ferguson takes office according to Mrs. George Nallee, daughter of the woman who has just won the democratic gubernatorial nomination in the Lone Star state.

"Mother isn't a militant suffragette as she has been pictured," Mrs. Nallee said. "Primarily she is a mother and a homemaker, but she is also a capable administrator whether of the family funds or state affairs."

Says Ma'll Have Final Say

It was brought to the attention of Mrs. Nallee that New Yorkers considered the nomination of Mrs. Ferguson really a re-nomination of "Jim" Ferguson—that he would really run the affairs of the state.

"Ma'll be the boss. She'll probably be guided by the experience of Dad, but if they differ she'll have the final say, and they differ on many things," the daughter answered.

"It's really a sacrifice for Ma to take on this responsibility but she certainly won't delegate it to dad. She'll make her own decision," the daughter said.

Ma Ferguson got her start in politics at Baylor College in class affairs. After she married Jim Ferguson she was more or less connected with politics because Jim for the last 15 years has been a factor in Texas elections.

Ma Ferguson didn't care a whole lot about getting to be governor—that is, from a selfish viewpoint—Mrs. Nallee explained.

Vindication of "Pa"

"She had to help vindicate Pa's name," the daughter said. She amplified this by saying that Jim Ferguson's opponents had admitted in court that charges against him were groundless, so Ma's nomination completely cleared the name of Ferguson."

Texas new woman governor—the first in the country—is very capable of making decisions, her daughter said.

"Already she has settled one issue for all times. She has put the Ku Klux Klan out of politics forever in Texas. In a year people will be asking her what the klan is," Mrs. Nallee declared.

The Nallees—Mr. and Mrs. Nallee and their son Ernest—have been staying up well into the morning receiving bulletins of the outcome of the run-off primaries. They are visiting at a local hotel.

"We're elated. We expected Ma to win. Dad's name is cleared and the klan is whipped," was Mrs. Nallee's parting comment.

Robertson Concedes Victory by Ferguson

DALLAS, Aug. 25.—Felix D. Robertson of Dallas, klan candidate, has conceded defeat by Mrs. Miriam Ferguson of Temple for the democratic gubernatorial nomination upon the basis of partial returns from Saturday's runoff primary.

Judge Robertson sent Mrs. Ferguson a message of congratulation upon her nomination Sunday and later in the day issued a statement here in which he declared, "I will bide by the dictates of the people."

Robertson plans a short rest and then will return to the bench. He is a district judge here.

POLICE POWER HERE EXTENDED

Old Law Grants Functions On Canal to Pass

City police power extends down the ship canal to Sabine Pass, Mayor Logan discovered this morning.

Some time ago this commission engaged in discussion as to whether the commission had a right to pass an ordinance extending police powers along navigable waters. Logan contended there was a state law giving cities the right to pass such ordinances.

This morning the mayor showed Police Chief Covington that Port Arthur police have had this power on the canal for the last 11 years, the ordinance extending powers having been passed in 1913. The extended police power will be chiefly valuable in checking taking of stolen articles across the canal, Logan said.

Woman pleads Beer With Kick Used For Permanent Hair Wave

LONG grasping tentacles on hands which enforce the Eighteenth amendment have now reached out, clutched tantalizingly, and become enmeshed in the bobbed hair epidemic, according to a woman, arrested by police on a booze charge this week-end.

Some eight gallons of beer which graded about nine per cent alcohol were found in the home of the woman. Asked why so much of the product, the woman surprised the blase minions of law order with a brand new, booze alibi.

"You mean what was I doing with that beer? Why, I sell that to beauty parlors for putting permanent waves in bobbed hair," was the startling excuse for so much vintage.

Fermentation of the beer, which is being held at the police station, today was so strong officers said a mere smelling was all necessary to start a permanent wave without an external application.

K. P. DELEGATIONS TO MEET HERE FRIDAY

OPPOSITION DISARMED

Unique Condition Worries G. O. P. Leaders

DALLAS, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson of Temple maintained her commanding lead over Felix D. Robertson of Dallas for the democratic gubernatorial nomination upon the basis of reports to the Texas Election Bureau at 2 o'clock today.

Returns from 231 counties out of 252 in the state including 83 complete, gave the Temple candidate 407,887 votes and Robertson 327,781.

RUN-OFF STANDINGS

Governor — Ferguson 407,887; Robertson 327,781.

Attorney General — Moody 441,339; Ward 210,699.

Comptroller — Baker 219,000; Terrell 411,450.

Railroad Commissioner — (Six year)—Gilmore 371,801; Weaver 219,003.

Railroad Commissioner — (4 year term)—Nabors 273,360; Smith 344,793.

Chief Justice Supreme Court—Cureton 354,169; Wear 259,205.

Total votes accounted for 735,-008.

Opposition Disarmed

Winning of the democratic nomination for governor by Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson of Temple, temporarily disarmed organized opposition in Texas, political observers agreed today.

Through the decision of the state independent partisans to not select a Texas ticket in their convention a few days ago and the action of T. P. Lee, Houston, republican nominee for governor, in underwriting the candidacy of Mrs. Ferguson, the woman candidate is virtually unopposed at present.

Lee Upsets Basket

The republican state committee is scheduled to meet at Houston Tuesday to act upon the selection of a successor to Lee, whose resignation will probably be asked. In a message to Mrs. Ferguson shortly after he was nominated by the republican convention at Fort Worth, Lee expressed the hope that Mrs. Ferguson would win the democratic nomination and declared in that event he "would be satisfied with the usual empty honor" of being republican nominee in Texas. Lee has since offered to resign as nominee if the state republican organization desires.

Robertson Carries Harris Co. by 500

HOUSTON, Aug. 25.—With but two small county precincts not tabulated, Harris county gave Felix D. Robertson, klan candidate for governor, a majority of 500 votes over Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, conceded victory for the democratic nomination for governor.

The vote is reported to be 5,000 below that cast in the July primary in Harris county.

Significant in the conceded defeat of Robertson is the fact that the great red cross, erected over Houston klan headquarters and which has sent its crimson light blazing defiantly into the night for weeks prior to the election, was dark Sunday night.

LICENSES TO HUNT NOT LEGAL UNTIL SEPT. 1

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 25.—Hunters who have bought their 1924-1925 licenses cannot use them until September 1, according to a ruling received this morning from H. W. Wells, chief deputy of the game commission at Austin.

Licenses are being issued by deputy game wardens and the county clerk and it has been the belief of hunters that they could use the licenses now. Wells state, however, that hunters would need their 1923-1924 licenses now, and the new ones could not be used until the first of the month.

CHARGED WITH THERIOT MURDER

Port Arthur Man Shot To Death Near Delphine

NORRIS GIVES UP

Admits Slaying Cousin Garfield Sunday

Released on $2500 bond this morning to await his examining trial Tuesday, September 2, before Judge R. G. Robertson in justice court where he is charged with murder Sunday morning of his cousin, Garfield Theriot, 23, at Delphine near Port Acres. Whitney Norris today continued his refusal to make any comment whatsoever regarding the case.

"I have nothing to say until my examining trial," was all the young man, said to be 22, would say this morning in answer to questions asked him in his cell at the city hall before he was released on bond.

Gives Self Up

Norris came into the city hall about noon Sunday and gave himself up.

Simply saying to the desk sergeant "Here I am, I killed Garfield Theriot," Norris has maintained a complete silence regarding the case.

But one eyewitness to the death of Garfield Theriot has been found so far. He is Morris Bourque, cousin to both the slain man and the one charged with murder. According to Bourque, he, Norris and Theriot started out together in a car from Port Arthur Sunday morning, bound for the M. Boudreaux place near Port Acres. Arriving there Bourque said he went into the house for a few minutes and soon heard shots.

Bourque told police officers, he came from the house in time to see Garfield run a few feet down the road and then fall forward on his face dying, practically instantly. Four shots, an examination of the body at Grammier's Undertaking parlor where it was removed after the inquest, took effect.

A bullet wound in the calf of his leg, one in his thigh, another in the hip and the one which apparently killed him was in the right side, were found.

Two Angles to Defense Advanced

Two angles of defense for Whitney Norris have been advanced by relatives who have discussed the case freely with officers. One is that he will plead the unwritten law and seek to prove Theriot had broken up his home. Another is self defense, some claiming Theriot attacked Norris with a knife before the latter began shooting. This angle has not been verified nor denied by the only eye witness, Morris Bourque, police officers said today.

E. Theriot, the dead man's father, arrived from New Iberia, La., last night on learning of his son's death. Three brothers and five sisters, a wife, five months old baby and mother survive Theriot.

Witnesses who saw Norris, Theriot and Bourque leave Port Arthur together Sunday morning said the three cousins were in the best of spirits, apparently. That no intimation of any trouble was brewing between the two had been shown, was the statement of relatives. Relatives of Theriot said today Norris came by and insisted Sunday morning Theriot accompany Norris and Garfield on the trip.

Frank Vaughn, attorney for Norris, said today he did not know what defense would be offered for his client.

"We have nothing to put out at all and won't have before the examining trial," Vaughn said.

Funeral Today

Police declared Theriot's wife had recently complained she feared he would attack her and only last week was in seeking a peace bond. This statement is offset by the dead man's family who said today Theriot for three nights preceding his death had sat up with his sick baby. Relatives denied all reports that anything but best relations existed between the dead man and his wife.

Funeral services for Theriot will be held this afternoon at 5 at the residence of his father, 1032 Dallas. Rev. C. W. Culp officiating, burial to follow at Greenwood.

TRY NEGRO ON STATE ROBBERY CHARGE TODAY

The fair association has been pledged full co-operation of the Y. M. B. L. and it is expected at least 4,000 ticket books will be sold during the drive. Season ticket books with 10 admissions to the fair grounds and transferable will be sold for $1.25 each. It is pointed out this will bring the admission price to 12 1-2 cents whereas admission without a season ticket book will be 25 cents.

The victory banquet to be held September 15 at the Pleasure Pier when 400 members and guests will enjoy a program and buffet luncheon will also be discussed.

NEW BIRTH IS SERMON TOPIC

Rev. McElroy Preaches At Christian Chruch

—2 inside—NEW BIRTH ... .

"The Blessedness of the New Birth" was the subject of an interesting sermon last night at the First Christian church, delivered by Rev. D. W. McElroy of Fort Worth.

Taking his Bible text from the third chapter of First Peter, Rev. McElroy stated that the new birth was from the kingdom of Satan into God's kingdom

"This life in Christ Jesus—this new birth—is a new life," declared Rev McElroy. "As a person comes into the earthly kingdom, so does one come into the spiritual kingdom—by birth. Whosoever is in Christ Jesus is a new creature.

"As a child is born into the world, he is born into great opportunities and into liberty of great American nation Just so when one is born into Christ he is born into a liberty loving kingdom; he is translated from darkness into light, and he is born into its freedom. Whereas he was in the bondage of sin, now he is free. Whereas he was dead in sin, now he is alive in God. Whereas he was dead and without hope, now he is alive in God, in things high and holy, and alive to the needs of the church, to the things God wants him to do and to the program of the church.

"When a child is born into the natural world he becomes the child of his parents and there is a new relationship formed. Just so when one is born into God's kingdom he becomes a child of God. Think of the relationship of father and son, of the wonderful faith the Father has in the Son. Then think of the still more wonderful faith the Father in heaven has in us today. As we have faith in our earthly father, how much more faith ought we to have in our Heavenly Father.

"When we are born into God's kingdom we become a member of the household of God, and we have a new name. How we'll fight for our earthly name, but think how much more sacred is the name of Christian

"Just as the father on earth provides for his children, so does the Heavenly Father provide for his children and He protects them. As the earthly father trys to educate his children, just so does the Heavenly Father make provision for educating His children.

"Isn't that Messedness?

"If we become His children we become heirs of the kingdom of God. Can you think of an inheritance worth while without a home? Home is the sweetest word in the English language. Home is the synonym for happiness, for fellowship, for rest and for love. I can think of no sadder thing than of a man without a home, and surely there is nothing more tragic than a soul without a home. That's the only thing in life—a home for the soul."

ZR-3 IS READY TO CROSS OCEAN

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 25.—About 200 persons, chiefly technical experts, foreign newspaper correspondents and German editors, had their first view of the dirigible ZR-3 today in the hangar where it was built for the United States and where it will rest until the day for the technical flight over Lake Constance.

For the flight to the United States the ZR-3 has apparatus not contained in any other dirigible. Among these is a "mother" gyro compass, which the Germans used on their submarines. This istrument is not affected by altitude. In addition there will be other compasses aboard the aircraft.

Change Motors at Ivigtut, Greenland

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 25.—America's around the world airmen are just one hop from the North American continent today as they pause to change motors at Ivigtut, Greenland.

The next flight, will take them to Indian Harbor, Labrador.

The two flyers—Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Eric Nelson—arrived at Ivigtut yesterday after a speedy, uneventful trip from Frederiksdal. The flyers hopped off at 1:50 p. m. (G. M. T.) and arrived at Ivigtut at 2:00 p. m. (G. M. T.)

From Ivigtut they will sail to Indian Harbor, then down the eastern coast of North American with stops at Hawkes Bay, Pictou Bay and then the arrival in Boston.

At Pictou the two airmen will be joined by Lieutenant Leigh Wade, third member of the globe circling party.

WHEAT POOL TOTALS 3,250,000 BUSHELS

ENID, Okla., Aug. 25.—There are 3,250,000 bushels of wheat in the Oklahoma and Texas Wheat Growers' association pool, it was announced by officials this week. Present indications show the 1924 pool will exceed the record established last year.

Thousands of bushels are being stored by members who will be paid by the association for storing their own wheat. Two cents per bushel is paid for each month until Sept. 15.

Wiley was slashed during a political dispute. Officers left here tonight to investigate the incident.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment really help eczema and similar skin eruptions. Sold by all druggists.

Who Will Build Port Arthur If Her Own People Do Not?

Port Arthur's great industries import capital from every nation of the world. They in turn employ thousands of men who make their homes in Port Arthur. These are the people upon whose shoulders the upbuilding and growth of this city depend, for it's the money that is imported in a town and kept there that really builds for permanence. After all its the SURPLUS or THE LACK OF IT which makes a city rich or poor.

When You Build for Port Arthur You Are Only Building for Yourself

When you build for Port Arthur you in turn are building for yourself. Perhaps you have a family, the children are small now, but in a few years they are going to grow up. Then it is that the things you do now to build Port Arthur and her institutions count so much. For then it is that they in turn employ your son or daughter, returning to you everything that you have invested and more. Hence you can readily see that building for this city is only placing an investment in future years for yourself.

AGAIN WE ASK THE QUESTION—WHO IS GOING TO BUILD PORT ARTHUR IF HER OWN PEOPLE DO NOT?

Elks Beat Pineland, 14-9—A's Trim Plumbers, 12-7

KRING PITCHES FOR VISITORS

Trauth, Fulbright, Smith Do Heavy Hitting

HITTING for extra bases together with errors in profusion marked the Port Arthur Elks' victory over the Pineland visitors yesterday afternoon on Lakeshore diamond, 14 to 9. Bill Kring, who has left Port Arthur for Houston, hurled all the way for Pineland, but had an off day. "Sweet Cookie" Cook celebrated his return to the game after an enforced absence of several weeks by pitching seven innings for the Elkies, Mack Leach finishing out the last two frames. The crowd at the game was easily the largest of the season.

Andy Trauth, "Doc" Fulbright and Smith were the heavy hitters for the locals. Trauth whopping things up with a triple and a homer off Kring. Fulbright netted a couple of singles and a triple, while Smith hit a double and a triple in five times at bat. "Mobicky" Iglesias had an off day decidedly, handling but two out of five chances at shortstop. He was at bat three times, scoring three runs, although he made but a single.

Pineland started off as though they meant business and planned on taking the game from the locals. Pineland scored three runs in the first on one hit and a couple of errors, another in the third, and it was the fourth frame before the Elkies could come ahead, 5 to 4. When Leach took up hurling duty in the eighth the count was 8 to 7 for the Elks, Pineland having scored two in the seventh while the Elks came back with three more.

Substitutions were frequent on both sides, the Pineland crew making five switches of position while Manager Cliff Gunn of the Elks used three extra men besides a couple of switches.

Jack's Plebeian Beak Now Thing of Beauty

SHOWING MR. DEMPSEY AND HIS NOSE IN BEFORE AND AFTER PHASES.

Mr Jack Dempsey, gentleman of the fists, romantic idol of the silver sheets and contributor of deathless passages to the realm of literature, has a new beak.

Perhaps it is more accurate to say Mr. Dempsey has a made-over horn, since the basic foundations of the original structure still remain.

Plastic surgeons have taken the plebian Irish nasal design which Mr. Dempsey has affected since infancy and worked it over into a perfectly intriguing Grecian pattern.

Those who knew the champion in his wilder skating days may recall that his nibbler turned up sharply at the end, much after the manner of a Turkish house slipper. This was all right for glove tossing tournaments, but not for the higher arts. As Mr. Dempsey himself observed, "Whoever heard of an actor with a retrousse nose?"

So it came to pass that the Barrymores of Fistiana submitted his sneller to the mercies of the white-coated carvers, with instructions to build the thing over and blazes with the cost.

Dispatches announce the knife artists scored a scientific triumph. They gave the champ a face that only a mother could recognize.

Gone is the noble old pug nose of prize ring days. In its place appears a chaste, straight beezer, plainly intended more for show than blow.

The boyish bob is expected to make Mr. Dempsey's bugle vastly more presentable for the cinema. What effect it will have on his performances in the ring is a matter of speculation.

In this connection the immortal lines of the good Marquis of Queensberry are recalled:

"Any nose will spread if you pop it right."

TWO TENNIS TITLES CHANGE

Helen Wills Again Star of Games Saturday

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 25—Two Americanas doubles tennis titles were won at the Longwood Cricket club here Saturday afternoon in sensational rallies which snatched victory out of the jaws of defeat.

Miss Helen Wills, the Olympic and national singles and doubles champion, and her partner, Vincent Richards, the young Olympic champion, were the heroes of an afternoon of spectacular and exciting tennis in which courage was exemplified to the maximum.

Lost Opening Set

The 18-year-old California girl and her young partner had lost the opening set to William T. Tilden and Mrs. Molla Mallory, the 1923 champions, and they were down four-three in the second set of the final match for the mixed doubles championship, when the youngsters came to life. They fought like demons and won the match and the championship at 6-8, 7-5, and 6-0.

In desperate straits, the young pair found themselves when the big guns of victory had given up all hope for them. And when they did find themselves, they went tennis-mad and crashed through the third set at 6-0 in one of the greatest rallies ever seen.

Fine Demonstration

Robert and Howard Kinsey, the California brothers, were called upon to give a fine demonstration of coming from behind in their final match for men's doubles against the Australian stars, Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood. The Californians won the first set after a fight to deuce and then dropped the second and third sets after carrying them to deuce. They rallied then after the rest period and won the match and the title at 7-5, 5-7, 6-3 and 6-4.

The Australians were handicapped by soft footing which made their smashing style of attack ineffective. The Kinseys' refused to play the Australian game and lobbed their opponents to defeat.

Another Day In the Majors

DUTCH LEONARD, out of big league baseball for three years, was right yesterday and the Tigers won from the Yankees, 7-2, taking the series for Detroit. It was Leonard's second start this season, and he let New York have only six hits. New York's scores came when Babe Ruth hit a homer with Dugan on base. Manush and Cobb also hit homers.

Washington climbed within two points of first place by trimming the White Sox, 4 to 1. Zachary having the breaks over Robertson and Lyons. Smith's pitching won for Cleveland over St. Louis, 8 to 1, the Browns getting but five hits. Summa hit a homer.

In the National loop the Giants were beaten 2-1 by the Cubs, the Pirates standing idle and thereby crawling half a game nearer the lead. New York's lead is now only four games. Aldridge pitched the best game of his life, giving McGraw's men only three hits. Art Weis, the Wichita Falls flash, hit the single that scored the winning run in the sixth.

The Brooklyn boys slumped and the Cardinals took two, 7-6 and 17-0. Hornsby's ninth inning homer won the first game, while in the second the St. Louisans annexed 25 hits off Roberts and Osborne. Cincinnati took two from the Braves, 9-0 and 8-2. Sheehan let Boston down with six hits in the first while Pedro Dibut, a Cuban rookie, allowed the Braves only four hits in the second.

The butterfly fish remains absolutely motionless throughout the day.

85 CONTESTING FOR MEN'S TITLE

Players From Eight Nations Entered

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 25.—All the world's greatest tennis players without a single exception start today on the courts of the West Side Tennis club in the chase for the men's national championship.

Because of the international class of the entries, the winner will be entitled to consider him the world's champion although there can be no official title awarded as such owing to the ruling of the International Tennis Federation.

Tilden Greatest in World

Eighty-five players from eight nations will start in the first round. There are better players from more nations than there ever been entered in a tournament before and the matches are more international than the recent Olympic matches in Paris.

Leading the entries are three recognized champions, who have a just claim on a world's title as it formerly was conducted. William T. Tilden, the greatest player in the world. Vincent Richards, the Olympic single champion and Jean Borotra, the Wimbledon champion will attract the most attention.

Tilden naturally is the favorite to retain his championship. He may be pressed harder than he was in the last two tournaments but he has such a great game that he can stand a lot of pressing.

The national champion lost two of his titles last week in Boston in the doubles. He was eliminated with Sandy Weiner, his youthful protege, in the early rounds of the men's doubles and he also went down with Mrs. Molla Mallory in the finals of the mixed doubles against Miss Helen Wills and Vincent Richards.

Norman Brookes Entered

William M. Johnston, runner up to Tilden in 1922 and 1923 is expected to be the most formidable rival of Tilden's again this year.

Norman Brookes, one of the greatest of all players and his Australian Davis cup partner Gerald Patterson are also likely candidates.

Some of the feature matches on the opening card are Tilden against Manuel Alonzo, the good Spanish player who is the only one with a victory over Tilden in the last two years; Brookes against Hump Kelleher, Robert Kinsey against Watson Washburn; Borotra against Carl Fisher; Bryan Norton against Peck Griffin and Pat O'Hara Wood, the Australian against Harold Throckmorton.

SEEKS SIXTH PENNANT

Baltimore, with five straight flag winners to its credit, is well on the way to another International League championship. There seems to be no stopping the Orioles though Toronto, Rochester and some of the other clubs usually boast first-class teams.

IOWA AT ANN ARBOR

Iowa football eleven will make its first appearance at Ann Arbor since Yost came to Michigan when the Hawkeyes and Wolverines clash on Ferry Field in November. It will be the second meeting between the two schools since 1902, relations having been resumed last fall at Iowa City, Iowa, incidentally, hasn't whipped a Michigan team since 1900 when it accomplished the trick.

Short Sport In A Hurry

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—The English polo team which is to meet the American team in the coming international cup matches, was defeated 14 to 6 here yesterday by a team of American players consisting of Hopping, East, Cowdin and Waanamker, none of whom are on the big American team.

WACO—With the close of the Texas association season today, the sale of J. T. "Pewee" Lewis, star shortstop of the Waco Indians, to the St. Paul American association team, was announced. The sale price was not made known. Lewis reports immediately.

CHICAGO—Helen Wills, queen of American and Olympic courts is to play an exhibition match here today. A fellow Californian, Cranston Holman, San Francisco, probably will be her opponent.

CHICAGO—Two national swimming champions lost their crowns here yesterday. Robert Skelton, Olympic winner and A. A. U. quarter mile breast stroke champion, was defeated in that event by Richard Peterson. Oliver Horn, indoor backstroke title holder, lost to Conrad Mila and Omar Miller at 220 yards.

QUESTIONS

1. If a pitcher strikes out a batter, but he reaches first because of a wild pitch or the failure of the catcher to hold the third strike, is the pitcher credited with a strikeout?—D. A. S.

2. Can a ball that first strikes a considerable distance in foul territory later become a fair ball?—D. V. B.

3. Infield is playing in. Base umpire is standing about 20 feet back of the shortstop. The ball is batted past the infield, takes a freakish bound and strikes the umpire. Is the ball in play or is it dead?—J. V. C.

4. Fielder has the ball in his possession ready to touch runner, who deliberately knocks ball out of fielder's hands, reaching the base in safety. What is the proper ruling?—E. R. T.

ANSWERS

1. The pitcher is credited with a strikeout whether or not the batsman is retired.

2. Yes, provided it settles on fair territory between home and first or home and third, or passes third base or first base while in fair territory.

3. The ball is always in play when it strikes an umpire after having passed the infield which is playing in.

4. The fielder should be called out when he deliberately knocked the ball from the hands of the fielder about to touch him.

Johnny Bassler, Detroit catcher, made his first home run in major league competition when he drove the ball into the right field stands at the Yankees' stadium on the recent eastern trip. This is Bassler's fourth season in the big tent, too.

ALDINGER HITS CIRCUIT CLOUT

Bob Hase Steals Three Bases in Row

BOB HASE'S base running was one of the big features of the 12-7 victory of the Port Arthur Athletics over the Maltz Plumbers of Beaumont yesterday afternoon, according to the reports here today. "Cupid" had injured a leg and when he got on base asked for a runner. This was refused by the Beaumonters, the locals say, and as a return for this, Hase stole second, third and home.

Aldinger, the old reliable, whammed the ball with a vengeance, hitting a home run. The Athletics started out in the first with some playing decidedly below par and "spotted" the Beaumont team a lead of five runs. Gradually, however, the Port Arthur boys crept ahead into the lead and victory.

Frejean pitched all the way for the Athletics, giving 12 hits while his teammates made four errors behind him. The Beaumont Plumbers made six errors and let the Port Arthur swatters hammer the ball for a total of 21 hits.

Seen In The Squared Ring

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y.—More than 50,000 visitors were estimated to have taken a look over the training camp of Luis Angel Firpo here yesterday. There were 1500 paid admissions when the South American worked out for his fight with Harry Wills in Jersey City next month.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y.—Thousands of tourists stopped here yesterday to watch Harry Wills, colored heavyweight, train for his coming fight with Firpo. Wills, who has been working hard for six weeks did nothing but a very light session.

GASSERS FIGHT UPWARD AND WALLOP CRABS 5-4

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 25.—Wildness of relief Pitcher Matthews, coupled with timely hitting by Shreveport brought defeat to the Galveston Sand Crabs 5 to 4. The locals were forced to wage an uphill battle when two two-baggers, two singles and a base on balls gave Galveston four runs in the fourth. Pitcher Joe Gleason was spiked in the foot by Riley when he covered first base for a play.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

—WE ALL DO FADE AS THE LEAF.—ISA. 64:6. IN THE MIDST OF LIFE WE ARE IN DEATH—THE CHURCH BURIAL SERVICE.

The Editorial Mind

Dr. Frank Crane's Editorials

It is the custom to look upon friendship between men and women with suspicion.

The hard-headed wisdom of the world finds it difficult to admit that there is any such thing without the entrance of a baser motive.

At the same time there have been as many enduring friendships between men and women as there have been friendships between men and between women. There is no doubt that the play of the sex instinct, in what may be called a secondary or tertiary place, is as stimulating as those of more immediate contact.

There is something in the companionship of men and women that is distinctly stimulating and creative. It is allied to, and germaine to, that creative instinct which enables people to do their best work in the world.

The greatest poetry, if not the greatest prose, has been written under the inspiration of the opposite sex.

There is no doubt but that the companionship is dangerous in a way but all precious things are dangerous and this should not induce us to regard with suspicion our friendships. There is something peculiarly stimulating to a man in the friendship of a woman which he does not find in that of a man.

There is such a thing as sex in ideas, and in personality and point of view, as well as more bodily functions; and there is little doubt but what each member of the race is stimulated to do the best work under the influence of the opposite sex.

Boys are better trained if they are allowed to associate freely with girls and men acquire a smoothness of manner under the influence of women more than they do by themselves. In fact the question of educating each sex by itself has found considerable opposition from those who are best acquainted with the fundamentals of human nature.

Whoever made the human race, male and female created He them and it is intended for them to best develop their personality and live out their lives by being in constant contact one sex with another. It is pretty well demonstrated that a life can only find its proper stimulus and interest in the presence of the opposite sex.

It is doubtful whether a man has ever attained distinction without the presence of some of those women who are called "femmes inspiritrice" by the French which means those women who are especially endowed in inspirational ability.

In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—In one of those intimate night clubs, which open at 10:30 o'clock and close the next morning when stenographers and office help are rushing to begin the day's work, is a dainty young woman who sings.

The club accomodates perhaps 200 guests and there is but one waiter. The orchestra is composed of a versatile piano player. Several hostesses are employed to jolly up ensemble groups.

The crowd begins to congregate after the theater and then the frivolity begins. Drinks are $1. There is a small space for dancing.

Singing hectic jazz tidbits with numerous variations the little song lady keeps the crowd in good cheer until late in the morning. It is then she begins the crooning and mournful melodies that appeal to the late handegrs-on, especially the men.

Tears are shed in profusion and the girl is requested to repeat various sorrowing numbers over and over again. Men thinking of the wife and family back in a mid-western town and women recalling the happier days of their fleeting girlhood.

It is a slow night that the songster does not receive $25 in tips. Often she gathers as much as $50. People who cry pay more than those who laugh.

Hostesses who sympathize with misunderstood men on a lark are tipped from $5 to $20 for their synthetic emotions. All evening the girls drink "downs" at $1 a copy. "Downs" consists of a small glass of ginger ale masquerading as liquor. They are not permitted to drink on duty.

The substitute waiter made $67 in tips the other evening. The regular waiter is spending a two-months vacation in Europe.

Mother-in-law stories should be outlawed, but this one is on court record.

Mrs. Ida K. Greenwood has been restrained by court from crossing the street in front of her home to go to the residences of two sisters of her son-in-law and from talking with them or their neighbors.

She was charged with "spattering her mother-in-law spite."

"I got a package for Mr. Ziegfeld from the captain and I don't give it to anybody but him. It's worth my job on the ship if I do," explained a young man in Florenz Ziegfeld's offices.

He was ushered into the private office of the man who glorifies American girls and is regarded as the hardest man on Broadway to approach.

In the package where six quarts of water. In an envelope the young man handed Ziegfeld was a court summons.

He was a process server.

TRUTH CRUSHED TO EARTH SHALL RISE AGAIN

John Wesley Langley is a Kentucky republican. He has served twenty years as a member of congress. He knows his Redeemer liveth and he is glad of it. John Wesley was indicted early in the springtime for conspiracy to violate the Eighteenth Amendment. A federal grand jury returned the indictment. Agent of bootleggers testified that he had paid John Wesley five thousand dollars for his influence. This imp of satan needed a permit in order to withdraw legitimate whisky from a government warehouse.

John Wesley was shocked. He had been a God fearing and loud praying man from boyhood. He had shouted his virtues from the housetops. He had declared himself to be stainless and without sin, beyond the reach of the tempter and with a noble scorn for filthy lucre. An ignoble jury of twelve men heard the evidence and they returned a verdict of guilty against John Wesley Langley, who all his lifetime had defied the devil and his imps and had led the life of an exhalted statesman and a God fearing and loud praying citizen.

That verdict of the ignoble twelve did not crush the lion of the Kentucky mountains. From the federal court room and the verdict of a federal jury, both grand and petit, John Wesley appealed to the republican voters of his district for a vindication. He had been sentenced to a term of penal servitude. His case is pending in a higher court but the highest court that John Wesley cares for is the high court of the people of his congressional district.

John invaded his district. He painted himself as a martyr crucified in a noble cause by men without character and courts without mercy. He tells of his abject poverty in his boyhood, his struggles to lift his head above the low water of Poverty Flat Creek, his sacrifices and his heroism while reeling beneath the blasts of adversity's gales, his faith in the Almighty and his own moral rectitude and lastly of the proud hour of his life, when the people of his district elected him as their representative in the American congress and kept him there for twenty long years. John Wesley asked them to do it again, to brand his accusers as unworthy of belief and the court which had convicted him as an agent of oppression in the hands of misguided and weak minded men who would not know a God fearing representative of the people if they met one in the middle of the road. John Wesley has been vindicated. His constituents by a vote of four to one gave him a vote of confidence and for the eleventh time placed their congressional standard in his hand.

He thanked them. He said righteousness had won another sweeping victory and the cause of justice had been elevated to a higher plane than ever before since Daniel Boone and his fellow pioneers had rescued the dark and bloody ground from wild men and wild beasts. John Wesley's district is overwhelmingly republican. His constituents are for the most part mountaineers.

They love their friends, they hate their enemies, including revenue agents, they turn corn juice into wild whisky when the government isn't looking and by their votes they have let the outside world know that John Wesley Langley is without fear, without reproach, without stain and in the house of his friends he is the cock of the walk at all times regardless.

IRON JACK WALTON

Iron Jack Walton, the nominee for the senate of the Oklahoma district, is going down the line for John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan. Iron Jack had a slogan in his campaign. He said he had been framed and then cast out. He was removed on six paramount points and after his removal these paramount points were turned into six indictments returned by a grand jury at Oklahoma City.

Now the district judge was a klansman. Iron Jack demanded an immediate trial. This was granted by the court. Then Iron Jack said he had not violated a single statute of the state of Oklahoma. After wiping his spectacles and reading up a bit the district judge said the point was well taken and threw the indictments out of court. "Go tell it to your friends, Mr. Walton," said the court, "that a klan judge says you did not violate a single statute of this commonwealth. I hope you will be fair enough to make this announcement."

Iron Jack was fair enough. He made it. He announced his candidacy for the state, he gave his platform to the people and his principal plank was that he had been framed by his political enemies. He ran first and now he is the nominee. Governor Trapp and all the democratic leaders have fallen in line and will support Iron Jack for the senate.

This is certainly a queer old world. Whenever the political enemies of Iron Jack say that he was impeached and thrown out for cause, he pulls the court record and quotes verbatum what the district judge said when he dismissed the indictments.

Iron Jack makes his home at Oklahoma City. He carried Oklahoma City and county by a safe majority over the next highest man. A year ago they wanted to hang him in Oklahoma City and county and his friends had to protect him.

But here's what's the matter with you.
When you've an engagement, you don't leave in amazement
Every man who comes to your door.
You do not look stunning, nor do you look cunning,
In fact, you're a terrible bore.
And those things, girl, are bad—would discourage a lad.
But he really can let those pass,

WOMAN STEALS LIFE SAVINGS OF HUSBAND

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 25.—While Joe Birstan slept his wife loaded all their household goods except his bed on a truck, drew $4,000 from the bank, his life savings, and taking their three children, departed for parts unknown, he told the police.

The money was deposited in Mrs. Birstan's name, and represented the savings of Joe's 22 years' labor in the mines.

Neigubors said a large truck was used to take the furniture and children away.

Joe says he still has faith in his wife, but wants the police to find her. He could advance no explanation for the action.

Your Money AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

Even though you may be forced to draw on your bank account very heavily, never wipe it out entirely.

At first blush it sounds rather foolish to advocate leaving a small sum like $1.00 in a bank when you have drawn out many hundreds, or perhaps thousands, to meet some demand. It is not foolish to leave this one dollar nest egg still intact, however.

The great value of this one dollar is its psychological value. When a bank account is closed out the owner of that account is likely to feel reluctant about starting a new one and "blow in" what should be set aside as savings. The one dollar still in the bank acts as a mental anchor for most men and helps to hold them on the savings course—gives them a desire to build up the account again with that one lone, measley dollar as a foundation.

When you draw heavily on your account do not forget to keep this dollar anchor to the windward.

ANNUAL LIQUOR FLEET SIGHTED OFF GLAVESTON

The NERVOUS WRECK by E. J. Rath

©1924-by NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The "Nervous Wreck," an eccentric young easterner, is driving Sally Morgan from her father's ranch to the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gun the Wreck takes five gallons from a passing car.

Later they are held captive at a ranch along the way because Charlie McSween, the foreman, wants Sally for a cook. They discover that Mr. Underwood, the owner of the ranch, was in the car which they held up. Underwood notifies sheriff Bob Wells, who is Sally's fiance, of the robbery. Sally meets young Chester Underwood and rides off with him. The Wreck accidentally drops some dishes in the kitchen and Timothy, th Underwood chauffur, snickers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Huh!" demanded the Wreck.

"Comes out of your wages, I guess," observed Timothy. "I bet you must bust quite a lot."

The Wreck placed the remainder of the dishes on the table and selected the top one.

"I'm going to bust more," he said.

As Timothy dodged the dish he uttered a yell of surprise. It hit the wall just behind his chair. A second one was not so well aimed, for it went through a window. But Timothy did not wait for any improvement in the marksmanship. He bolted for the door, which he reached while the fourth dish was in the air. It crashed against the jamb and most of the pieces fell outside.

The Wreck surveyed the marks of his achievement, shrugged his shoulders, lifted the pile of dishes from the table and resumed his journey to the pantry.

"Damn that Underwood pup," he said.

Timothy had not personally figured in the matter at all, so far as the Wreck was concerned. He was merely a symbol.

Late in the afternoon the Wreck went for a walk. His impulse was to take the trail that led back into the hills; it was in that direction Sally and Chester had ridden. But he sternly compelled himself to follow the wheel tracks that went toward the main road. Let her stay out riding as long as she liked; it was no affair of his.

He did not pay much attention to the trail. His mind was concentrated on the problem of where Charley McSween had hidden the wheel of the flivver. In odd hours he had been searching fuctirely, but without the least satisfactory result. The flivver was locked in a shed, into which he could have easily broken; but he knew that it was useless to search there. Charley would not have made things quite so simple as that. The wheel was somewhere else, and it would be time enough to break into the shed when he located it. Several times he considered the advisability of trying to thrash the truth out of Charley, but Sally always vetoed the project. She had respect for his prowess, but she was by no means sure that he could whip everybody on the ranch. Even if he did, there was no certainty that Charley would tell.

He was still walking slowly, his eyes staring at the ground, when a drumming sound caught his ears. Instinctively, he paused to listen. Horses. They were coming nearer, too. Probably Sally and Chester had been circling around through the hills, he thought. Well, if that was the case, he had no desire to meet them. He did not want Sally to get the notion in her head that he was eavesdropping or that he had the least interest in anything that she did. So he stepped off the trail.

There were clumps of young spruce on every hand, and he moved around behind one of them, where he could not be readily seen. The hoof-beats continued to grow louder, and the Wreck, crouching, peered through his screen for a view of the trail.

Only one horse, after all, he decided a few seconds later, but it was movingly briskly. Then, around a turn in the trail, it appeared. It was a big, black animal, with a long stride, and the man who rode it was also big. A rifle in a holster hung suspended from the saddle. The Wreck, staring curiously, also had time to note that there were two guns at the belt of the rider. Then the black horse drummed on, out of sight.

"Doggone!" said the Wreck aloud, as he stepped from behind his spruce shelter and stared down the trail.

The rider was Bob Wells, the sheriff.

So long did the Wreck stand in dismayed consideration of his discovery. He clenched his fists and set off at a dog trot toward the ranch house in the wake of the black horse.

The obvious thing to do was to get back to the house as rapidly as possible, and he was doing it. There was Sally to be warned, if ever he got there in time. He groaned as he thought of Sally suddenly confronted by the sheriff.

The Wreck found himself running with a steadiness that surprised him. He did not try to sprint. He could not overtake the black horse, anyhow, and there would be nothing to gain if he did. Not being able to guess just how far he had walked, he conserved himself. Step after step he plugged away, slowing a bit on the up grades, letting himself out on the down-grades, and fighting hard for his second wind. The main thing was to get there as soon as he could. After that it would be time to see what there was to be done about Bob Wells.

When the trail emerged at last from the spruce he came to a halt, panting sharply as he stared in the direction of the ranch buildings. The land was open all the rest of the way to the house, and there was no concealment, if he needed any, so he deemed it wise to make a reconnaissance. He had no notion of being headlong about anything, for his mind was cool, despite his anxiety about Sally Morgan. If she had returned from the ride there was no telling what might have happened. He could see no sign of the sheriff or the black horse; probably they were around the front of the house. He could not see anybody. So he struck out at a bold walk to cover the few hundred yards that intervened between himself and the kitchen door. By the time he reached the goal he had recovered his breath.

The first thing he did was to peer cautiously into the kitchen. Nobody in sight, not even Timothy. There was no kettle on the stove, which meant that Sally was still away. He was tempted to steal through the house and see if the sheriff was out front, but abandoned the idea, because he could see nothing to be gained, even if he made the discovery. After a moment of thought he turned his steps in the direction of the corral.

The black horse was there, still saddled. The Wreck stared grimly at the beast, which he had seen before at the Bar-M, and of which he knew the sheriff was uncommonly proud. Bob Wells was undoubtedly up at the house, talking to Underwood and bearing new lies about the hold-up. Sally was still somewhere out on the trail with Chester Underwood. There was nothing for the Wreck but waiting.

He sat on the grass and propped his back against the corral fence, keeping watch upon the trail that led back to the hills, and also upon the house. If he saw the sheriff coming for his horse he would disappear behind the nearest shed. If Sally came first he would be there to warn her. He found little comfort in inaction, but it was the only course for the present.

Half an hour later, still huddled against the fence, he thought he saw a dust cloud on the back trail. Polishing his spectacles, he restored them to his nose for another observation. Sure enough, there were two riders coming. They were coming at a gallop, too, and soon they were so near that he could identify Sally beyond any mistake. There was a fine grace and confidence in the way Sally handled herself in a saddle, and it was not lost even upon the Wreck, poor horseman that he was. She could ride rings around Chester Underwood.

He climbed to his feet as Sally swung herself out of the saddle, and she saw him for the first time. She flashed her quirt in salute.

"Hello, Henry. We've had a bully ride."

"Uhuh," he answered with a nod.

The Wreck was trying to give her a warning before she might betray herself into an indiscretion. Not being adept at expressing his thoughts, save in words, the best he could do was to fashion his features into a queer, baleful grimace. Sally was puzzled, and she showed it by a wrinkling of her forehead, which signified inquiry.

Chester slid off his horse, so that for an instant his back was turned. The Wreck quickly laid a forefinger against his lips and jerked his head in the direction of the corral.

Sally looked, then stared, her mouth opening slowly. She knew the black horse out of a million. Bob Wells! Swiftly her glance swung in the direction of the house.

"Well," said Chester, "shall we go up to the house? I'll see you all the way home, you know."

Sally recovered herself and smiled. "You go ahead," she said. "Thanks ever so much for the ride. I want to talk to Henry for a minute."

CHAPTER XIII
A Woman's Place

When Chester was beyond earshot she turned to the Wreck and almost smothered him in an avalanche of questions. He told it rapidly, while Sally kept an anxious eye on the house. When he finished she sent another glance in the direction of the black horse, who was unconscious of having created a sensation profound and disturbing.

"You don't suppose he's tracked us?" mused Sally.

"How could he?"

"I don't see how he could either. But Bob's awfully smart when it comes to being sheriff. If he knows we're here, the jig's up, of course."

Scorn and defiance shone in the eyes of the Wreck.

"It's a hundred to one he doesn't know we're here," he said. "It's a thousand to one he hasn't any idea who he's after. He probably came for some more information. And they're all lying so hard he'll never find out anything."

"Hope so," said Sally doubtfully. "How long do you suppose he's going to stay?"

Practical Costumes For Town Wear Are Favored By Fashionable Women

SEEMINGLY all the August fashions concern themselves with those who are summering in the mountains or at the shore, what they shall wear for sports, how to frocked for the tea hour, and how they may be most effectively costumed to float through a warm summer evening. Alas, for those who from choice or necessity must remain in town and endeavor to achieve ensembles both cool and smart on the city streets. First impressions would give one to understand that, having been started along the correct sartorial path early in the spring, the town woman is confronted with the problem of either clinging to the spring mode or coming to town in the newest country clothes that are everywhere described, neither of which is at all the thing.

But there is, no matter how carefully one must look before discovering it, a definite mode for the discriminating woman who spends her time in town. She may be as cucumber-cool to look upon and quite as becomingly costumed for city as for country days.

Perhaps the most important note is the change of the tailored suit, which is correct now only for a few hours in the morning, to the so-called coat-dress, or severely simple one-piece frock, in which one may comfortably go almost anywhere and do almost anything. Bengaline, satin, alpaca and the crepe weaves are most often used. Leading shades are black, gray, beige and rust, with, in almost every case, some touch of lingerie for the sake of the crispy, cool look it gives.

The alternative to this frock is the costume complete, which has never lessened in importance since its entrance into the mode. A number of new things have been thought of, to suit it to the present warm weather need. The loveliest models combine satin and chiffon, or satin and crepe, and sometimes one fabric is figured while the other is plain. The coat is always straight and of seven-eighths length, worn over the most slender and simple frocks. In many cases the dress fabric will match that of the coat lining, while a deep band of fabric at the bottom of the dress will match that of the coat, so that there is a pleasing oneness of effect.

The hats that attend these costumes are simple small ones, of straw, silk or felt, usually in black or matching color, with an occasional bit of trimming in white or color. Shoes are extremely simple; either pumps or oxfords are preferred, with sometimes a one-strap model in kid. Creamy brown and the lighter grays continue good for hose. Gloves match hose in color and tend to simpler designs.

Homecoming Banquet For Rev. Yelderman

As a delightful homecoming party for Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Yelderman, the Women's Bible class of the First Christian church, of which Mrs. Yelderman is the teacher, will entertain the Men's Bible class, which is taught by Rev. Yelderman, with a most enjoyable "lemonade banquet" in the church cafeteria next Saturday evening, August 30.

The banquet is scheduled for 7 o'clock. All members of the Men's Bible class planning to attend the banquet are requested to telephone Mrs. J. A. House, Mrs. C. K. DeBusk or Mrs. Henry C. Garrett before Wednesday evening in order that the Women's Bible class may make adequate reservations.

A meeting of the women is being held this afternoon at Mrs. H. C. Garrett's home, 1814 Ninth street, to appoint other committees for the banquet and to make final arrangements for Saturday evening's entertainment.

The only committees appointed up to this time are the program and the decoration committee, which are comprised of Mrs. H. M. Frederickson, chairman of the decoration committee; Mrs. R. J. Conley, chairman of the program committee; Mrs. L. A Lauve, Mrs. C. K. DeBusk and Mrs. Ben Parks.

Flapper Not Menace To Future of Race Says 'Ma' Ferguson

TEMPLE, Texas, Aug. 26.—Mrs Miriam Amanda Ferguson, democratic nominee for governor and the first woman to be given that honor in the United States, is a strong advocate of the American business woman and has faith in the "flapper."

The woman candidate does not encourage abandonment of the home, but says women should not allow an opportunity to take part in the world's business to slip away because of indifference.

Day of Woman's Opportunity

"I do not mean that women have to work outside their homes to accomplish big things, but the opportunity has been given women in the business world and I do not think they should fail to take advantage of the opportunity," she declared.

Although Mrs. Ferguson does not approve of the giddy carryings-on of present day youth, she says she has no fears for the country. "I have no fear for the race because of the antics of the so-called flapper," she declared. "They may be a little wild, but I venture to say that their average is just about as good as they were when I was a girl. The boys, too, although they go in for some curious fads, will probably make pretty good fathers for the next generation," she added.

"Ma" Ferguson does not intend to allow her election as governor—for democratic nomination virtually means election in Texas—to displace her from the control of her household.

Affairs of Home First

"My home always will come first," she declared. "When I take over the governors' chair and the executive mansion, I shall take care of the home just as I did when Jim was governor. There is no reason to believe that I will do otherwise, for I am confident that I shall have plenty of time to take care of my home while administering my state duties efficiently."

Plans for her administration are not completed and she admits that she will probably encounter several new propositions. "There's a lot I do not know about governmental affairs," she said, "but I have not always been a poor observer. There was a time when I was called upon to be adviser to Jim Ferguson and now I guess he can be adviser to me.

"However, I watched things pretty closely about the office when Jim was governor and I believe I have a pretty good idea how it should be managed," she said.

Political subjects, however, do not distract the nominee's attention from her family. The Fergusons have two daughters, Miss Dorrace, 20, who was her mother's secretary during the recent campaign, and Mrs. George S. Nallee, 24. Besides, there is Ernest Nallee, four-year-old son of the Nallee's and the idol of his grandmother. "He's the finest grandchild in the state," is her admiring comment.

Mrs. Ferguson is an active civic worker, but not a club member. She has never participated in women's activities and the only organization with which she is affiliated is the Protestant Episcopal church.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON, CONTINUED

I think I'll just write to Paula, Syd, and explain matters to her in a way, saying that Leslie is staying out of town longer than she expected when she left at the time of Beatrice Grimshaw's wedding. Something must break pretty soon in this damned mix-up. If it doesn't I shall go crazy.

You know mother has made up with that devastating old maid, Priscilla Bradford, and Priscilla is staying at the apartment with her. I think she has nosed around enough so that she knows something is wrong between Leslie and me, but she has been smart enough this time not to speak to me about it.

Mother is getting back into her old captious, critical mood, and even Miss Anderson looks worn out with her. Miss Anderson asked me the other night when I thought Miss Bradford was going away, and I bluntly made the inquiry of mother.

"Why, I don't know John," mother answered. "She was invited for the wedding anniversary, you know."

"Well, the wedding anniversary didn't come off, mother dear, consequently it seems to me if she had any sense she wouldn't stick around.

"Miss Anderson is about fed up with her, I think," I was foolish enough to hazard.

"Has Miss Anderson been complaining to you, John?" bristled mother.

"Not at all, not at all, but I get very tired of trying to be polite to that old maid. You know I never liked her, and I've only endured her in my house because for some unaccountable reason you seem to like to have her around."

Mother looked heartbroken, and went off to her own apartment I haven't seen her for the last day or two. Whether the Bradford woman has gone home or is still staying there I do not know, for even Miss Anderson has not shown up.

I don't know what I would do if it were not for little Jack. Do you know, Syd, he's beginning to put words together. He has been backward in talking, I am now teaching him to say: "Jackie loves mother." I think that will please Leslie, don't you?

My business is going along fine—never had so much of it in my life before, and I attribute it all to Mrs. Atherton. I've been a little out of patience with her, since Leslie went away, however, for she has hardly looked at me, and if she were a mind to, she could brighten my loneliness a lot. I like to talk to her, she always has something original to say.

Now, Syd, I hope you won't be as stubborn as Leslie has been. Do you think I could go over to the Hamilton's without shattering my dignity at all? I don't know just how much Mother Hamilton knows about Leslie's and my misunderstanding, but I imagine Leslie has gotten her to send that telegram, particularly as I did not answer her telegram about the boy at all. To tell you the truth, I didn't know what to say, I didn't want to refuse, and I didn't want to comply until I had made up my mind what to do.

There, old man, you have my whole story since you left, and I have only one piece of news to send you. Ruth Ellington has married Walter Burke. I hope she will be happier than she was with Harry. I never cared much for her, but Leslie loved her. She certainly has stepped into a mint of money; the Burke fortune has trebled in the last three years.

For heaven's sake, write to me immediately. I am in a mess.

JACK.

CULP ATTACKS MODERN EVILS

Pastor Pleads for Return of Old Fashioned Home

Dangers of movies and modern dress destroying ideal home life and breaking down characters of men and women and boys and girls were pointed out by Rev. Dr. C. W. Culp, pastor of the First Baptist church, as the theme of his sermon to a congregation of over 1,000 people gathered on the church lawn, Fifth street and Shreveport avenue, Sunday night.

"I have seen several movies, and with one exception, that depicting the 'Life of Christ,' I have yet my first movie to see that is not spoiled before the end by a vulgar, suggestive or degrading scene," Rev. Culp said.

Pointing out that he did not wish to be an extremist, Rev. Culp declared the power for good in moving pictures is probably greater than is possessed by any other modern invention. Use of movies to teach geography, natural history, zoology and other subjects in Franklin school and other schools was cited by Rev. Culp as an illustration of the possibility of moving pictures for wholesome and educational development.

"But as long as the movie industry is ruled by the devil and operated for gain, it will be degrading. Only an aroused public sentiment against the modern vulgar picture shows will bring about an improvement," the pastor said.

Extravagances in modern dress and mixed bathing at beaches and other resorts also were scored by Rev Culp. Men and women alike are oftentimes slaves to fashion, going to extremes, paying any price in order to keep up with changing styles, and consequently causing dissention and unhappiness to creep into the home life.

"Bobbed hair on many young people is pretty, but it does not look good on grandmothers," the pastor declared, quoting "If a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a covering." from 1. Corinthians, the eleventh chapter and fifteenth verse.

At the close of the sermon Rev Culp made a plea for the return of the old-fashioned Christian home, with its family altar, the wives and mothers busied with household duties, gentle, consecrated and loving in spirit.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NO. 10—PETEY POLAR BEAR'S HOUSE

There sat Mister bear reading his paper

"Let's go to see Petey Polar Bear," said Weeny to the Twins.

"All right!" said Nancy and Nick, just like that. "Where does he live?"

"Up north near Santa Claus," said Weeny.

"Near Mister and Mrs. Seal?" asked Nick.

"Not so very far," said Weeny. "If I hadn't floated away on an iceberg, we'd have gone to see Petey while we were up north before. But since we have so much magic along, it won't take us long to go back. Got my satchel with my nighty and specs?"

"We've got it," said Nancy. "And your tooth-brush, too."

"Then all aboard for Santa Claus Land!" cried Weeny, swinging his trunk back and forth pretending he was a brakeman with lantern. "Toot! Toot!"

And away he started to the cold, cold north to visit Petey Polar Bear, his old circus friend.

And you'd be surprised how quickly they got there on the elephant express. You'd certainly be surprised!

Why, in no time at all they were standing right before Petey's house and knocking on his ice-door.

"Come in," said a grumbly, growly voice.

So Weeny turned the knob with his trunk and went in, but it was a pretty tight squeeze and the Twins nearly got scraped off his back.

There sat Mister Bear reading his paper.

He looked surprised when he saw them. "Why, how d' do?" he growled pleasantly. "I didn't know we had company. Do sit down. Mrs. Bear is out hanging up our winter furs so the moths won't get into them. She'll be in in a minute."

"Is Petey at home?" asked Weeny elephant, sitting down to let the Twins slide off his back.

"Not just now," growled Mister Bear. "He's gone to the fish store to get some fish for lunch. What news do you bring?"

"Oh, there isn't any news, much," said Weeny. "Things are just about the same."

"How did the ball game turn out?" asked Mister Bear.

"Oh, the Boxers won," said Weeny. "Two hundred to one hundred and ninety-nine!"

"Why, I thought you said there wasn't any news!" said Mister Bear, in surprise. "That's news. And what happened to the airplanes that started round the world? I've been looking for them to come this way but I haven't seen any sign of them yet."

"Why, they've been home some days," said Weeny.

"That's news, too!" said Mister Bear in a pleased voice. "I'm ever so glad you came to visit Petey."

Weeny and Nancy and Nick were all thinking the same thing. They were thinking, "If Mister Bear keeps on, we won't have much time to play with Petey."

They have never seen such a curious person in all their lives.

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

COSTER AND GUTENBERG

The use of block books spread rapidly in Europe. Soon printers were making such books in large numbers in Germany, Holland and England. Some were printed in France, too, but not so many.

Perhaps the busiest printers of all were those in Holland. Many of their block-books have been preserved down to the present time.

One Dutch printer was named Laurence Coster. He lived in the city of Haarlem. We know of at least 47 books he printed. Of some of them, we have the entire volume. Of others, only a page or two have been kept.

Now comes the most interesting thing about Coster. It seems that he was the first printer in Europe to use "movable" type. Experts have gone over his books, and I believe that the same type was used over and over again in certain volumes.

John Gutenberg came into fame soon after Coster. He lived in Mainz, in Germany. Some scholars give him credit for being first to use movable type in Europe. That honor, however, appears surely to belong to a Dutch printer, whether Coster or not.

Even so, Gutenberg's life and work is interesting. If he did not invent movable type, he did make it much better.

Gutenberg's life was a hard struggle. He gave all he had toward building up the printing industry. When he ran out of money, he borrowed from a man named Fust. Later on, he had to face a lawsuit from Fust, who wanted to get his money back. Gutenberg could not pay, so he had to give up his shop.

That did not make him lose heart. He told another man what he was trying to do, and got enough money to start another shop. He then went ahead and did much more good work.

The printing art was now in Europe to stay.

STATE REGAINS 551,115 ACRES

AUSTIN, Aug. 25.—There has been forfeited to the state for non-payment of interest 551,115 acres of state school lands out of approximately 3,000,000 acres which was this year subject to forfeiture for the same reason.

The announcement was made today by the State Land Commissioner, J. T. Robinson. It can be seen from this that the holders of approximately 2,500,000 acres of state lands have liquidated their interest obligations to the state and have redeemed their holdings.

These forfeited lands included 30,718 acres in Brewster county, 42,000 in Culberson, 43,070 in Hudspeth, 50,000 in Jeff Davis, approximately 12,000 in Loving, 22,000 in Pecos, 55,000 in Presidio, 103,000 in Reeves and 19,000 in Ward county.

The acreage forfeited ranges down to 40 in Borden, 70 in Mills and 80 each in Randall and Taylor counties.

This forfeited acreage will again be placed on the market, subject to sale to the highest bidder Sept. 2 when bids will be opened at the general land office.

GRAND JURY IN 58TH CONVENES

Several True Bills Expected, Report

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 25.—The grand jury of the 58th district court met today when it was considered possible that a few bills will be returned at this time. They adjourned Friday afternoon, but no bills were returned. Scores of witnesses were called before the organization during the past week.

The grand jury was called together for a special session following the killing of Mrs. J. E. Bishop on August 7. The husband of the dead woman was held for investigation at the city jail pending the examination of witnesses. He was released several days ago by chief of police Reid Tevis when the grand jury failed to return an indictment in the case.

MANY VOTE FOR WRONG CANDIDATE

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 25.—"Fully one-half of the people who voted in the first primary voted for county commissioners and other candidates not in their precincts," B. P. Quicksall, election judge declared here this morning. When the count was taken and it was found that many persons voted in error, the votes were not counted for the one particular officer but were thrown out.

"I have noticed that men who have voted for years have made this mistake," Quicksall continued.

One justice of the peace elected to office at Beaumont in precinct 1, said he recently received congratulations from a voter in Port Arthur who volunteered the information that he had voted for his friend. "I told him how much I appreciated it," the newly elected officer said and "didn't have the heart to tell him that his vote meant nothing for me."

Other election judges have declared that many Port Arthurians voted for Beaumont constables, commissioners and justices of the peace, and Beaumont people voted for Port Arthur candidates.

Whose Eyes Are These?

Are you good at solving puzzles? Here's one.

Guess whose eyes these belong to. They are a pair that will be seen here soon at the Peoples theater, in "Monsieur Beaucaire," a novel production with an all-star cast.

The entire cast of the production will be printed in this form in The News; guess the owner of all the eyes, mail them to "Contest Editor," care of Peoples theater, Port Arthur, and perhaps you'll win one of the prizes being offered by the Holton theater management.

The prize list includes $10 in gold to the person guessing the greatest number of stars correctly; $5 in gold to the second best guess, $2.50 for the third. In addition, passes to any of the Holton theaters for two persons good for four weeks, three weeks and two weeks and one week, will be awarded and five individual passes to any one show.

Don't mail your guesses in one at a time. Save them until all the stars have been printed. Twelve appear in the leading cast. When you have clipped out the twelve eyes, make your guess, and then mail them in.

Commissioners Delay Precinct Line Change

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 24—There will be no change in the precinct voting lines until next August, members of commissioners' court decided this morning. Changes in lines to conform with school lines have been contemplated, but it was the opinion of the court that such a change would result in a general mixup now. The question was also raised as to whether or not it would be legally possible to change the lines at this time, and it was the general opinion that they would need to be left as they now stand.

'BOY PREACHER' SPEAKS SUNDAY

Rev. Oliphant Addresses De Queen Baptists

Interest continues to increase in the open air services being conducted on the lawn of the DeQueen Park Church of Christ by Evangelist W. L. Oliphant of Oklahoma. Rev. Oliphant is 24 years old and has been preaching since the age of 15. He is familiarly known throughout Oklahoma as "The Boy Preacher."

The audience last evening was the largest of any during the meeting thus far. At this service Rev. Oliphant spoke on "Jacob's Ladder." He showed that Christ is the ladder from earth to Heaven and that it is only through him that one is saved. He emphasized the fact that while God has prepared the ladder by which one may be saved, it is up to a person individually to do the climbing.

Meetings are held each evening at 7:45 o'clock.

WILSON PACKING FIRM IS BROKE?

Temporary Receiver Appointed; Officials to Contest

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—State banking commissioner Edward Max-son of New Jersey has been appointed receiver for Wilson and Company, packers, by vice chancellor Backes in Trenton, according to the Dow Jones Financial agency.

Application for the receivership was made by Morse A. Klein of Newark. Wilson and Company officials do not attach any importance to the application, which was made Saturday, and will contest the action.

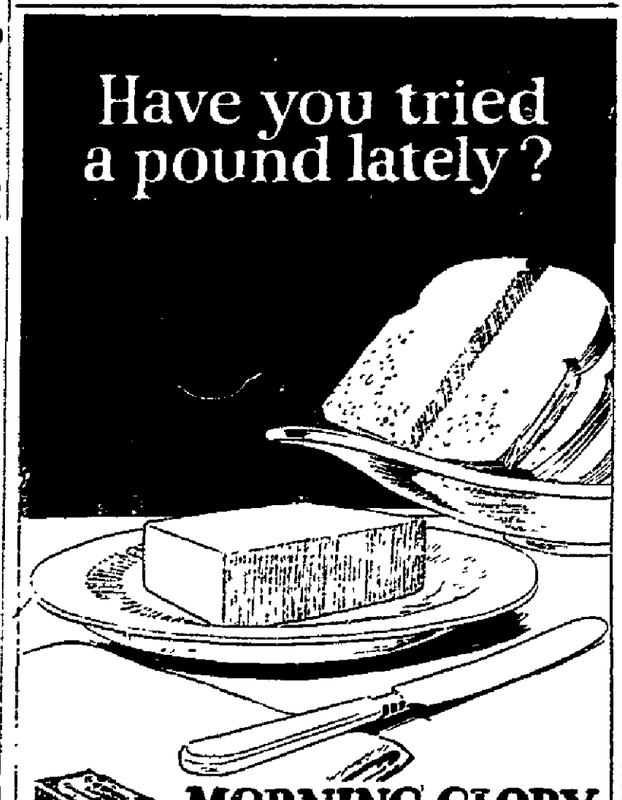

In his petition he said the company owes $30,000,000 to various banking institutions and has an outstanding debt of $47,177,000. He said in at least two recent instances the company was unable to pay installments of interest due on stocks and bonds.

Vice Chancellor Backes set September 2 as a time for the defendant company to show cause why a permanent receiver should not be appointed and the company declared insolvent.

REVELATIONS IS SERMON THEME

Rev. Godbey Also Preaches On Discouraged Prophet

Taking as his text Revelations 20:3, Dr. V. A. Godbey spoke to a large audience at the First M. E. Church, South, last night on the subject, "Satan Loosed for a Season."

He outlined the dramatic prophecies of revelation, showing that the book of Revelations is a dramatic prophecy of the advancement of Christianity in the world, but that it makes its progress in the midst of great tribulation of the nations and of the saints who promote true religion.

He showed the importance of religious toleration but emphasized the great importance of fidelity to the truth and loyalty to personal faith and ideals.

The sermon was delivered in the open air auditorium of the church.

Dr. Godbey preached at the morning hour on "The Discouraged Prophet," taking as his text 1 Kings, 19:9-10, "what doest thou here, Elijah?"

He briefly outlined the situation in Israel when Ahab had made alliance with a foreign nation by marrying the daughter of an adjacent nation in which the worship of Baal was the common religion. He told of the beginnings of the practice of Baal's religion in Israel, and of the test between Elijah, God's holy prophet, and the priests of Baal. The people grossly immoral, were with the priests of Baal. How God assisted Elijah, when Elijah asked God to answer his prayers and overthrow Baal, formed an unusually interesting account by Rev. Godbey, who then told of Elijah's flight to Mount Sinai from the rage of Queen Jezebel. Hiding in a cave in his retreat he became discouraged and desired to die. After a short time Jehovah appeared to him and asks, "What doest thou here, Elijah?" After Elijah's discouraging answer God gave a great exhibition of natural disturbances, of a tornado an earthquake and a fire. But God was not in any of these. And after these there was a still small voice and in this voice he recognized God.

Dr. Godbey said that we are too much moved by the wind and fire and earthquake, and are apt to forget that in the silent forces, the still, small voice, the noiseless working of gravitation, the reviving power of sunlight, and in the truth growing silently in the heart God most fully reveals himself and by the agencies that are unseen but powerful, he overthrows his enemies.

He asked his hearers to remember that human governors come and go, and human kingdoms rise and fall, but high above it all God sits in judgment on the acts of men, and rewards states and nations, human institutions and human beings according to their works.

Who'll Pay For $56 Police Sub-Station?

The city wants a $56 police substation at Seventh and Woodworth as headquarters for Chief Covington's new bicycle policeman, but who'll pay for it?

The chief came into commission meeting this morning, and gently suggested that City Engineer Herpin's department furnish the lumber and that Covington's department would pay for the labor.

"No, sir, I don't need any police station—the building fund won't pay for it," said Herpin.

"Well, what would you have me do—pay for a new jail?"

"I don't know, the jail was here already," answered Herpin.

When Herpin learned the new temple of justice would cost only $56, he and Covington agreed to pass the buck on to Finance Commissioner Wiley.

Wiley was absent—"playing dominoes," Covington said.

MARKETS

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug 25.—Stocks continued in a period of technical readjustment in the opening session of the week. It was evident that the market had been influenced from the selling on Friday and Saturday. But in view of the vigor and duration of the previous advance it was unreasonable to suppose that the work of readjustment could be completed in so short a time. Transactions during the day therefore were largely devoted to the same process. The character of the selling suggested that stocks were rapidly passing into strong hands of strong accounts. The leaders, U. S. Steel, Baldwin and General Electric, the recessions from the previous final figures at no time reached important proportions. But in a number of issues of the specialty class in whose recent gains pool operations have played an important part some rather sharp declines took place.

Among these were International Paper, Cuyamel Fruit, and Colorado Fuel. In the latter, the break was particularly severe, reflecting the extent to which the market activities in the stock had run ahead of the actual development work of the company's oil properties.

"THE CHECHAHCOS"

"Life passes in emotional review at the Cameo theater where "The Chechahcos" is holding forth. This Alaskan made epic is a human drama with its greatness hidden in its simplicity. Against the stupendous background built by Nature during a thousand or more years the players enact a story that is natural and real. Any attempt at theatric posing or artifice would be apparent at a glance. The cast of "The Chechahcos" can act. Eva Gordon, the star, is internationally known as featured artist with the Danish players of Copenhagen. Alexis B. Luce and Gladys Johnson are both well-known from coast to coast in dramatic and musical comedy circles.

"GALLOPING GALLAGHER"

"Galloping Gallagher," starring Fred Thompson, the newest western "stunt" man, opens at the Liberty theater tomorrow.

Here is a clean-cut, excitingly entertaining picture, unusually well produced, and with a lot of hard-working players, headed by the redoubtable Thomson, who don't miss an opportunity.

"Galloping Gallagher" has a strong story, and a theme which is distinctively new in westerns. The star is a splendid athlete and horseman, and he has a horse, Silver King, that is a marvel.

This new treatment, perfected by the physicians of the Clinical Laboratories, Cleveland, Ohio, is known as Dr. Platt's Rinex Prescription, and works on an entirely new principle. But Rinex prescription, taken in convenient capsule form, goes direct to this infection all through the system, and neutralizes it completely—without narcotics or harmful drugs or any bad after-effects. The result in 95 per cent of all cases is complete relief in 24 hours.

No matter how long you have had Hay Fever—no matter where you live, or how many other treatments you have tried in vain—Dr. Platt's Rinex is positively guaranteed to bring you complete relief in 24 hours—or it costs you nothing. If you want to be satisfied that Rinex will help your case of Hay Fever, you can get a 24-hour treatment FREE from your druggist; or you can buy a full week's treatment for $1 on a positive money-back guarantee.
